We train.

We also....

enlighten, inspire, develop.

Even in one of our one-day training courses, we create enjoyment, provoke thought, and share processes and ideas that are unique to us. Our thinking is original and refreshing - let us share it with you.

Risk Management training for business people

We have developed many powerful approaches to the management of risk, and as a result can provide innovative, customised management training in three areas.

Whilst our in-house courses are fully customised here are some examples:

Strategic management

- Managing your reputation - a one day course covers the spectrum from understanding your reputation and key stakeholders to responding to a reputation crisis.
- Tools to assist strategic thinking - Employing powerful tools to identify and manage both the potential risks and rewards in key business decisions, projects and strategies

Risk management

- Risk Management master class - the entire process from identification to board reporting. 2 - 5 days
- Risk management processes for those involved in audit, quality, controls. A one-day course that covers risk identification, assessment, root cause analysis, controls and monitoring.
- Beyond risk registers - building value into the risk management process

Crisis preparedness

- Identifying the scenarios for the planning process
- Creating a business continuity plan - from selecting the teams to plan content and strategy
- Crisis plan creation
- Handling a major crisis - including, if required, a full simulation of a media-dominated crisis.
- Stress-testing business continuity plans

Why DBRC?

All of our in-house training courses:

- Are fully customised to meet the needs of the client
- Include many practical exercises and, where confidentiality requirements permit, can involve working on situations that are within the work environments of the participant
- Are designed to maximise thinking, enjoyment and creativity - minimum use of Power Point, maximum use of interaction and graphical modelling techniques, including the outstanding Inspiration software.
- Can be made far more effective by our unique fusion of consultancy and training

Our training team:

- Each runs their own company, and has a lifetime's experience of providing risk management solutions to organisations around the world. Nothing that we train in will be academic and our courses are full of our own anecdotes and experiences.
- Has worked together as an integral team on many training assignments
- Has worked in a wide range of sectors, both public and private and ranging from financial institutions to food processors
